I am pleased to introduce the 6th International Conference of Management Consultants that APCO organizes in Milan in 2018 on occasion of the 50th Anniversary of foundation.

In recent years, APCO has been a participant in the economic-social evolution of our Country and the development of the professional profile of the management consultant. Now we need to focus on the ability to transfer knowledge and experience to new generations of consultants and to anticipate market needs through the specialization of our communities of practice in the most innovative areas, such as digital transformation and sustainability.

We live in a period characterized by a continuous evolution that requires strong ability to adapt to change to respond quickly to new paradigms.

The 2018 International Conference deals with the theme "Making a sustainable world", which is based on the three pillars of sustainable development - economy, environment, social sphere - relying on key enabling factors: creative thinking, digital revolution and innovation, the latter in the "disruptive" and "friendly" dimensions that focuses on the human person.

These issues are becoming increasingly important in all business sectors, but we note that they tend to act only in the face of concrete benefits or compliance obligations. The role of management consulting is therefore crucial, because ideas, innovation and technologies find a suitable place in the value chain and able to effectively contribute to the achievement of the ambitious objectives of the UN Global 2030 Agenda.

Allow me to thank the stakeholders of this Conference: the authorities and patronaging bodies, our Scientific Committee, the speakers, the moderators, the partner companies, the session leaders, the sponsors, the colleagues of CMC-Global and APCO, the staff of Confcommercio Milano and all the participants who came to Milan from so many parts of the world.

Welcome to all of you from APCO and me!
