What is the Accredited Management Consultancy Course (AMCC)?

The purpose of the ICMCI's AMCC is to provide Higher Education and Training Providers ( for the purpose of this document referred to as Accredited Providers) with a globally recognised endorsement that will enable prospective clients seeking qualifications, courses and / or training in areas of Management Consultancy to have a level of assurance in the courses being offered.

Standards used in the AMCC are a combination of the ICMCI Competence Framework, ISO 17011. National IMCs will ensure that the Accredited Providers delivering the AMCC maintain these standards.

Accredited Providers who are successful in their application for AMCC will be added to a global register of AMCCs maintained by ICMCI and will be entitled to use the ICMCI logo with AMCC in their promotional materials for the specified course(s).

Who is the AMCC for?

It is recognised that there are many differing types of Accredited Providers who might be interested in having their Management Consultancy courses endorsed by the ICMCI. Those that wish to engage with the AMCC may vary in size from large businesses to those with a single trainer, for example:

- Commercial consulting and / or training organizations
- In-house learning centres, including those of management consulting firms
- Management Consulting Institutes and Associations
- Professional bodies and trade associations
- Individual trainers

If your organisation is included in the categories above and you deliver a qualification / course on Management Consulting or which has Management Consulting embedded within another course, you are eligible to take advantage of the AMCC and the benefits it offers.
